Fall maintenance, Winter Monitoring, Spring Management

3 evenings, 6:00 to 9:00 pm

July 22, 24, 26, 2019

Keeping bees through the winter is a challenge for all beekeepers. The time to start the process of analyzing your colonies and making preparations so there are plenty of healthy winter bees, low to moderate varroa count, healthy nutritional resources and supplemental resources available, is NOW. Over the winter maintenance including inspections will be covered. Spring is a busy time for you and your bees. Benefits of timely inspections, forming goals and implementing a plan for apiary health will be covered. A beneficial text will be provided offering good management advice with basic skills reviewed. Bring a pad and pencil.

Price per student including text: $90.00

Reservation now accepted.
